

airmen, and marines and their families and make a direct contribution to the national security of the United States. I salute them for their outstanding service and wish them continued success in the years to come.●

REMEMBERING ROBERT J. MCCARTHY

● Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I take this opportunity to honor the memory of a dedicated attorney, community leader, and wonderful person, Robert "Bob" McCarthy. Bob passed away on September 4, 2004. He was 61 years old.

Born in New York City on December 31, 1946, Bob McCarthy spent his childhood in the city, where he attended Regis High School in Manhattan. Following his graduation in 1965, Bob attended Santa Clara University, where he was a Presidential honors scholar and editor-in-chief of the school newspaper. In 1969, Bob received a B.A. cum laude in political science in 1969. While attending the university, Bob met his future wife, Suzanne Bazzano, the office manager at the school newspaper. They married in 1970 and had five children.

Following a stint in Chicago, where he earned his law degree from the University of Chicago Law School, Bob and Suzanne moved to San Francisco, Suzanne's hometown. Bob pursued a career in law, working in the San Francisco office of the district attorney for 4 years, serving as chief deputy district attorney. In 1980, Bob started his own general law practice with his friend Lester Schwartz.

Throughout his career, Bob found the time to pursue his love and passion for politics. He served as general counsel for the California Democratic Party from 1983-1990, and held a number of trustee positions within the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, including National Finance co-chair. He also served as a close adviser and cochair of my own Senate campaign, and has also advised a number of other elected officials in California. Bob was also well-known for the election day lunches that he hosted every year, a tradition among Bay Area dignitaries that wasn't to be missed.

In addition to the long hours Bob put in as an attorney, Bob carved out time to give back to his community. He was appointed by President Bill Clinton to the Woodrow Wilson Center Board of Trustees; served as a guest lecturer at Hastings College of Law in San Francisco, the University of California at Berkeley, and Peking University in Beijing, China; sat on the board of St. Mary's Hospital; was a regent of St. Ignatius College Preparatory; and was also made a member of the Knights of the Equestrian Order of the Holy Sepulchre of Jerusalem by Pope John Paul II.

Bob is survived by his mother, Dorothy McCarthy; his wife, Suzanne; his sons Brendan, Matthew, Ryan, and Bobby; and daughter, Margaret. I extend my deepest sympathies to his family.

Bob McCarthy was a deeply loved community leader, both in the Bay Area and throughout the State of California, and he will be missed by all who knew him. Let us take comfort in knowing that his dedication and love for his family, friends, and community have made this world a better place to live.●

TRIBUTE TO DON BOXMEYER

● Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, while my city of Saint Paul was enjoying its moment in the spotlight earlier this month, we were also mourning the passing of one of our great storytellers, Don Boxmeyer. Throughout his life as a reporter, columnist and author, Don discovered and brought out the human strength and variety of Saint Paul as no one else has. That made him one of our most important citizens.

Don worked as a hard news reporter for the St. Paul Dispatch and the St. Paul Pioneer Press, and wrote a column for over two decades. Here is how he described his career in his own words:

I realized that the interesting people and places nobody ever wrote about held more fascination to me and my readers than all the governors, mayors and city council members who never seemed to be much persuaded by my opinions anyhow. I began to collect hobos and hermits, bare-knuckled brawlers and bread-baking nuns, short order cooks and hockey coaches, drake mallards named Jake, and bridge tenders, band directors, bear hunters and quiet old men who wept softly when we talked about the friends they'd left on the battlefield.

And he shared them with the rest of us with humor, respect and a love of the nobility of regular people.

In his book, "A Knack for Knowing Things," Don collected many of his best columns about Saint Paul and Minnesota. He wrote about Swede Hollow in Saint Paul, the Rondo neighborhood destroyed by the construction of I-94 and Saint Joseph's Orphanage. He wrote about Stillwater, Lake Superior and Ashby, MN, and hundreds of other places and the people who made them. If a new resident of our State or its capital city asked me to tell them what kind of place they had moved to, I would just give them a copy of that book and let them discover it for themselves.

Don Boxmeyer's life eloquently conveyed an important lesson: each of our communities has roots in the values and experiences of generations that came before and we need to capture them before they disappear. His oral history of places Minnesotans know well and events they only vaguely know about is a priceless gift to the future.

Somewhere I read about a moment of despondency in the life of Robert F. Kennedy as he mourned the death of his brother Jack. Attempting to comfort him, someone said something like, "It is tragic that he only got to serve for 1,000 days, but that's as long as Julius Caesar served and we still remember him." Robert Kennedy replied, "Yes, but Caesar had Shakespeare to tell the story."

Saint Paul and Minnesota are much the greater because we had Don Boxmeyer to tell our stories.●

RECOGNIZING DEBORAH LONG

● Mr. CRAPO. Mr. President, it is my great honor to recognize Principal Deborah Long of Betty Kiefer Elementary School in Rathdrum, ID. Deborah has been recognized as Idaho's 2008 recipient of the National Distinguished Principals Award. The award is given jointly by the National Association of Elementary School Principals and the U.S. Department of Education. Deborah is being recognized for her exemplary leadership in her job and in her community and contributions to her profession, including professional association affiliations.

Deborah has established strong ties with parents and local businesses in Rathdrum. She has demonstrated exceptional leadership at Betty Kiefer Elementary and in the community. She promotes a goal-oriented learning environment for her students and expects great things from her students and her staff. In fact, under her leadership, Betty Kiefer Elementary is both an Idaho School of Merit and a recipient of the A+ Excellence in Education Award. In today's world, young students need and benefit from a good role model and someone who cares for them. She cares about the learning environment itself the school is decorated with floor-to-ceiling, hall-length murals that tell the story of a school focused on principles, patriotism, pride in their State and kindness to others. Deborah has gone above and beyond the call of duty in her service as principal of Betty Kiefer Elementary School, in her words, making her school "safe, secure and caring." Students in this rural Idaho school are fortunate, indeed, to have the gift of Deborah's wisdom, encouragement and expectations of moral behavior and high integrity. It says a lot about a principal when close to 100 percent of parents attend parent teacher conferences and a full 25 percent of parents volunteer at the school.

I am certain I share the sentiments of her students, their parents and her staff when I wish her congratulations and the best for continued excellence in her career.●

HONORING CONGREGATION BETH SHALOM

● Ms. MURKOWSKI. Mr. President, their Web site is called frozenchosen.org. No kidding. Today I honor Congregation Beth Shalom of Anchorage, AK, an affiliate of the Union for Reform Judaism, on the occasion of its 50th anniversary. It is a pillar of Alaska's small but vibrant Jewish community.